ACOUSTIC SOUNDTRACK TO A SPRING AFTERNOON

Brisbane's best acoustic artists will be at South Bank Parklands' rainforest Green for the annual Acoustic in the Park concert series from 2:30pm to 5:00pm on Sunday 9 September and Sunday 16 September.

Each concert will feature performances by five up-and-coming acoustic artists as well as headline performances by two standout artists from the 2006 Acoustic in the Park event.

South Bank Events Manager David Contarini encouraged music fans to bring along a blanket so they can lie back with a glass of wine and really enjoy the sweet acoustic sounds in the pleasant Spring afternoon.

"This year's Acoustic in the Park concert series will really showcase some fantastic local artists," David said.

"We had more than 100 entries this year and two of last year's standout performers, Cory Hargreaves and Mark Lowndes, will be returning to put on a special feature performance.

"Cory in particular is a name that music fans should keep an ear out for after his song 'Bluestone Room' was recently named Best Song (Folk/Acoustic) in The Australian Songwriters Association's Australian National Songwriting Contest."

The best performer from each concert will win a Maton acoustic guitar from Ellaway's Music.

Acoustic in the Park is a licensed event and visitors are reminded that no alcohol is to be brought into the Parklands.

Acoustic in the Park is proudly supported by QMusic, Ellaway's and Time Off.
